

Branford Now Has Three Ways to Recycle Used Motor Oil

1. Take to HazWaste Central.

This is the place you should go if you also have oil-based paint, bug spray, other car fluids, cleaning or polishing products you don't want, or any household hazardous product that you're not going to use up. Hazardous products usually have words like "warning", "caution", "flammable", or "hazardous" on the label. This is the only place to take your oil if it has been mixed with antifreeze, brake fluid, gasoline, water, or any other material (so please never mix used oil with other fluids!)

Open: Saturdays from 9 A.M. to 12 noon
Mid-May to the end of October
Closed holiday weekends

Where: 90 Sargent Drive, New Haven
@ Regional Water Authority
Long Wharf, exit 46 off I95

2. Take to your local service station.

Many service stations will accept used oil, especially from their customers. This can be the most convenient method to use if you take your used oil when you are getting your car serviced.

3. Take to the Branford transfer station.

The transfer station accepts used motor oil during its regular business hours. A Branford residence sticker is required. You must wait while your oil is emptied, or you will lose future privileges.

Open: Mon - Fri 7:15 A.M. - 1:30 P.M.
Saturdays 7:15 A.M. - 2:30 P.M.

Where: 747 East Main Street
.8 miles past Leetes Island Rd.
on Rt. 1

For any of the facilities:

Don't mix anything with used oil.

Don't take more than 10 gallons.

Don't leave oil when facility is not open!

Do use only clean containers.

Do use tightly sealing containers.

Do keep container to re-use if you want.

Never pour oil down any drain, or throw out with the garbage. This can cause serious pollution, or injure workers.
